REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE POLICE COMMISSIONER, 29 PEMBERTON SQUARE,
BOSTON, Dec. 1, 1907.

To His Excellency CURTIS GUILD, Jr., Governor.

YOUR EXCELLENCY: — As Police Commissioner for the city of Boston, I have the honor to present, in compliance with the provision of chapter 291 of the Acts of 1906, a report of the work of the police department for the year ended Nov. 30, 1907.

BOSTON IN COMPARISON WITH OTHER CITIES.

The purpose of a police department is not to manufacture statistics, but to preserve order and to enforce the laws. The theory lately exploited by a western statistician, to the discredit of Boston, that the relative "wickedness" of a city can be determined by the number of arrests per thousand of population made by its police force, is childish. It leaves out of consideration the character and scope of the laws and the ordinances under which the police force operates, and it ignores the vital question of police vigilance and zeal.

Under this theory, a mining camp with no laws except against murder and horse stealing, and those badly enforced, would shine in righteousness by comparison with the best-ordered city on the continent. If the police force of a city made fifty thousand arrests in one year, and the next year, through laziness or indifference, made but twenty-five thousand, the "wickedness" of the city, according to this theory, would have been reduced by half.

It is undoubtedly true that the police of Boston have more laws, ordinances and regulations to keep in mind, and a wider range of offences to check, than the police of any other American city. I believe it to be true that enforcement in many directions has been carried forward here so long and so steadily that the more flagrant offences of certain kinds are no longer committed, and the activities of the police are directed to phases of vice which in other cities receive no consideration.

A few years ago, for instance, any policeman or citizen well informed in such matters could have given offhand the addresses of a score of houses fitted, furnished and carried on by professional gamblers for gambling on a large scale. In those days, just as in other cities at present, arrests for gambling or for keeping gambling places indicated gambling of that character. To-day no such place exists in Boston, and nevertheless the arrests last year for gambling or for being present where gambling was going on or where gambling implements were found numbered 1,687, against 1,114 the year before. The police are going further with the law than ever before, and the arrests which they make are for incidental gambling in pool rooms, in the open streets, in the Chinese quarter and in a great variety of barns, kitchens and lofts. It is probable that not 20 persons of the 1,687 arrested were attempting to make an exclusive business of gambling, and it is equally probable that in no other American city would 1 in 20 of those men and boys have been arrested for like practices.

In the same category may be placed more than 700 prosecutions for violation of the Sunday law, almost 1,000 based upon misconduct by persons operating automobiles, and the large number of 3,000 boys and girls under the age of seventeen who were in the hands of the police under the new juvenile laws, as delinquent or wayward children.

Another suggestion is found in the punishment of offences against the liquor laws. In the year just closed there were 188 prosecutions, against 212 the year before. The decrease in the number does not indicate lack of police vigilance, but the effect of vigilance sustained year after year. The "kitchen bars," as the places in which liquor is sold without a license are commonly called, have been pressed so hard and have become so scarce that the police, who formerly found and entered them almost at will, are now forced to stratagem and elaborate disguise in order to place themselves where evidence can be obtained. Sunday was formerly the great day for the "kitchen bar;" but now, despite the fact that hotels are selling liquors freely with food and that practically all the people are idle, the arrests for drunkenness in the whole city in the twenty-four hours beginning Sunday morning at 8 o'clock number only about 25, or much less than a fourth of the average for a week day.

Moreover, there is a situation peculiar to Boston which makes any theory of "wickedness" based upon the ratio of arrests especially worthless. It is the great proportion of nonresidents arrested, particularly for drunkenness. As shown in detail elsewhere, 20,981 of the persons arrested in Boston last year, or 36.75 per cent., were nonresidents; and, of the 37,389 persons arrested for drunkenness, 17,061, or 45.63 per cent., were nonresidents. This is an increase from the year before of .69 per cent. in the nonresident part of the total arrests, and of 1.06 per cent. in the arrests of nonresidents for drunkenness.

ARRESTS OF NONRESIDENTS FOR DRUNKENNESS.

The burden upon the Boston police in the great numbers of drunken persons not residents of Boston for whom they are compelled to care is very heavy. A full tabulation for a period of twelve months, ended July 1, 1907, was made, and, though intended for another purpose, a summary of the information which it contains should be given.

In these twelve months the arrests for drunkenness numbered 35,728. Of the persons arrested, 408 were seamen, 1,557 had homes outside the State, 2,454 had no homes, and 11,528 came from 190 Massachusetts cities and towns outside of Boston. Against this total of 15,947 strangers stands the number 19,781, representing residents of Boston.

First in number among outside places is Cambridge, 2,100 of whose residents became so intoxicated in Boston as to require arrest. That number is greater than the entire number of arrests made for drunkenness in any one of ten Boston police divisions. Of the 190 Massachusetts cities and towns represented, those which contributed 50 or more intoxicated persons requiring arrest in the twelve months are as follows : —

Fitchburg,	51
Milton,	55
Stoneham,	55
Concord,	58
Walpole,	64
Randolph,	65
Canton,	70
Stoughton,	72
Gloucester,	76

Quincy,	869
Somerville,	975
Cambridge,	2,100

In each of five divisions the number of nonresidents arrested exceeded the number of residents, as follows : —

Division 1, Hanover Street : residents of Boston, 2,347 ; nonresidents, 4,603 ; total, 6,950.

Division 2, Court Square: residents of Boston, 960; nonresidents, 988; total, 1,948.

Division 3, Joy Street: residents of Boston, 1,910; nonresidents, 3,440; total, 5,350.

Division 4, La Grange Street: residents of Boston, 2,155; nonresidents, 2,181; total, 4,336.

Division 14, Brighton: residents of Boston, 249; nonresidents, 308; total, 557.

SUNDAY LAW ENFORCEMENT.

The Sunday law has been enforced throughout the year, and is still enforced, on a definite and well-considered plan. In December, 1906, all members of the police force were supplied with printed instructions which included a list of occupations which the law specifically authorized. They were directed to take the names of all persons engaged in occupations not so specified, and to apply to the courts for summonses. Before the following Sunday they were informed by printed order of the cases in which the courts either refused summonses or discharged the defendants after hearing, on the ground that their occupations came under the general provision of the law concerning works of necessity or charity; and they were instructed that in similar cases no further prosecutions were to be made. This method was followed from week to week, and in a comparatively short time, every member of the force was informed as to the construction placed upon the law by the lower courts, as affecting particular occupations.

Not one arrest was made in the whole year, and no attempt was made to stop work, for the police were instructed that they had no legal right to do either. Exaggerated reports of what the police were doing and what they intended to do were printed while the matter was a novelty; when it was no longer a novelty the reports ceased, and the impression was thus given to the public that a spasmodic attempt had been made in the beginning, and that after a short time all effort to enforce the law had been abandoned.

The truth is, that the entire number of prosecutions in twelve months was but 737; that there was no deviation from the original plan ; that only as the lower courts justified particular occupations or the refusal of the district attorney to prosecute appealed cases made police work useless, were prosecutions on particular lines abandoned ; and that to-day the people have so accommodated themselves to the law that it is enforced with an average of not more than five or six prosecutions a week.

Individual policemen are not allowed to judge of the legality of actions witnessed by them involving labor or business. When such actions are not included among those permitted by the law or sanctioned by recent court decisions, concerning both of which they have been fully informed, it is their duty to report the cases for the judgment of those charged with that responsibility. This method removes apparent breaches of the Sunday law beyond the reach of possible favoritism, and makes enforcement, so far as the police are concerned, uniform in all parts of the city.

In three classes of cases a pronounced disagreement as to the law arose between the lower courts and the district attorney. Practically all the justices of the municipal and district courts ruled that the law prohibited the making and the delivery of ice cream on Sunday ; the making and the delivery of bread outside the hours specified in the law ; and the playing upon musical instruments in hotels and restaurants. The lower courts convicted in 89 out of 92 ice cream cases, in 105 out of 113 bread cases, and in 27 out of 28 cases involving performance upon musical instruments. In the beginning the persons concerned paid their fines, and their acceptance of the rulings was further shown by their appeals to the Legislature so to amend the law as to permit them to continue in their occupations. A few cases in each class were appealed, and were not-prossed by the district attorney. Thereafter all prosecutions were followed by appeals, with a similar result. The police, believing that they should take their law from the highest court which they could reach, continued the prosecutions long enough to determine the fact that they would be without ultimate effect. The police force was then notified that further prosecutions of these classes of cases would be outside the range of practical police work, and were to be discontinued.

The existing situation injures the dignity of the law, and is embarrassing not only to the police but to conscientious persons engaged in these occupations. Without expressing an opinion as to what the decision should be, the Police Commissioner earnestly desires and recommends that the Legislature shall so express its purpose that there shall be no longer any doubt as to the true interpretation of the law.

Particulars of prosecutions are as follows, all representing action by the lower courts:—

Unnecessary work in shops, buildings, and public places: fined $2, — 12; $3, — 25; $5, — 81; $10, — 35; discharged, 58; on file, 33. Total cases, 244; total convictions, 186; amount of fines, $854.

Keeping open shops for the sale of merchandise and selling merchandise in the public streets: fined $2, — 1; $3, — 6; $5, — 82; $10, — 46; $20, — 1; $40, — 1; discharged, 18; on file, 22; on probation, 1. Total cases, 178; total convictions, 160; amount of fines, $950.

Making or selling bread outside the hours specified in the law: fined $2, — 6; $5, — 55; $10, — 39; discharged, 8; on file, 5. Total cases, 113; total convictions, 105; amount of fines, $677.

Making and delivering ice cream: fined $5, — 57; $10, — 19; discharged, 3; on file, 13. Total cases, 92; total convictions, 89; amount of fines, $475.

Transporting and selling merchandise: fined $1, — 4; $5, — 27; $6, — 2; $10, — 5; discharged, 22; on file, 7. Total cases, 67; total convictions, 45; amount of fines, $201.

Transporting theatrical baggage: fined $5, — 6; on file, 9. Total cases, 15; total convictions, 15; amount of fines, $30.

Playing on musical instruments in hotels and restaurants: fined $5, — 11; $10, — 12; discharged, 1; on file, 4. Total cases, 28; total convictions, 27; amount of fines, $175.

Grand totals: number of cases, 737; number of convictions, 627; amount of fines, $3,362.

The total number of prosecutions as given above varies slightly from the total contained in the detailed tables, the variation being due to the inclusion in the latter of certain offences committed on Sunday, but not in violation of the Sunday laws; that is to say, offences which would have been violations of law, no matter on what day committed.

AUTOMOBILE PROSECUTIONS.

The work of restraining the illegal use of automobiles has been carried on steadily, and the great decrease in the number of complaints from citizens received by the police or printed in the newspapers indicates increased caution and a better sense of public responsibility on the part of persons operating cars. The police have made 961 prosecutions. The care with which they have prepared their cases and the readiness with which the municipal and district courts have accepted their testimony is shown by the fact that in but 18 instances were defendants discharged. In perhaps four-fifths of the cases the persons accused pleaded guilty, and in almost all others they were convicted after hearing. The fines imposed amounted to $9,344. All the figures which follow represent action by the lower courts, no attempt being made to follow the few appealed cases. The causes of prosecution and the disposition of cases were as follows:—

Overspeeding: fined $5,—8; $10,—239; $15,—76; $20,—42; $25,—17; discharged, 9; on file, 26. Total cases, 417; total convictions, 408; amount of fines, $4,835.

Numbers missing or defective: fined $5,—17; $10,—122; $15,—27; $20,—3; $25,—6; discharged, 2; on file, 10. Total cases, 187; total convictions, 185; amount of fines, $1,920.

Persons operating without licenses or without badges in their possession: fined $5,—12; $10,—72; $15,—21; $20,—2; $25,—2; discharged, 2; on file, 18. Total cases, 129; total convictions, 127; amount of fines, $1,185.

Operating in parks and other forbidden places: fined $2,—1; $3,—4; $5,—47; $10,—5; discharged, 1; on file, 10. Total cases, 68; total convictions, 67; amount of fines, $299.

Operating in parks after sunset with rear number not legible at a distance of 60 feet: fined $5, — 31; $10, — 8; on file, 28. Total cases, 67; total convictions, 67; amount of fines, $235.

Operating with lamps missing or defective in other respects: fined $5, — 4; $10, — 32; $15, — 5; $25, — 1; discharged, 1; on file, 7; on probation, 1. Total cases, 51; total convictions, 50; amount of fines, $440.

Certificates of registration lacking: fined $5, — 4; $10, — 12; $15, — 7; $20, — 1; $25, — 1; discharged, 1; on file, 3. Total cases, 29; total convictions, 28; amount of fines, $290.

Operating while intoxicated: fined $15, — 1; $25, — 1; two months in House of Correction, 1; probation, 1. Total cases, 4; total convictions, 4; amount of fines, $40.

Operating recklessly: fined $50, — 1; probation, 1. Total cases, 2; total convictions, 2; amount of fines, $50.

Refusing to stop when signalled by a policeman: fined $5, — 2; $15, — 1; $25, — 1; discharged, 2; on file, 1. Total cases, 7; total convictions, 5; amount of fines, $50.

Grand totals: number of cases, 961; number of convictions, 943; amount of fines, $9,344.

In the general tables of offences, those involving the operation of automobiles are under different headings, such as violation of laws and violation of park rules; but here all are brought together.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS.

The prevention and the detection of offences against person and property committed by juveniles continue to present the most difficult task to the police and the most sinister suggestion as to the future to the people of Boston. The statistics which follow were prepared especially for the purpose of showing the number of persons under the age of seventeen years who were in the hands of the police from one cause or another in the twelve months ended Nov. 30, 1907; their offences, their ages and the disposition of their cases. These figures will not accord precisely with those contained in the tables attached to this report, because in the latter cases the classification is usually with regard to the offences, rather than to the ages of the offenders.

The first full year of the operation of the juvenile laws passed in 1906 shows no decrease in the vigilance of the police or in the loyalty with which they took up the work on the first of September of that year. In the first three months in which the laws were in effect the police handled 725 juvenile cases, and in the succeeding twelve months, herein reported upon, rather more than four times as many.

I have no complaint as to the practical working of the laws, but as to their effect I am still in doubt. I fear that no probation force exists that is adequate to the work of watching the 1,116 offenders placed on probation, not to speak of the 1,023 cases filed after conviction, which disposition partakes of the nature of probation. There is danger and in a measure certainty that the dread of arrest has diminished, and that the boy who has been at court and returns free and apparently unharmed often takes on the airs of a hero rather than the mien of a penitent, and that his play-mates are as likely to emulate as to avoid his conduct.

The number of juveniles in the hands of the police at each age, from one year upward, all under eight being included among neglected children, is as follows:—

One year,	1	Ten years,	238
Two years,	5	Eleven years,	265
Three years,	5	Twelve years,	366
Four years,	5	Thirteen years,	413
Five years,	9	Fourteen years,	433
Six years,	4	Fifteen years,	499
Seven years,	17	Sixteen years,	597
Eight years,	78
Nine years,	143	Total,	3,078

The causes which brought these 3,078 children into the hands of the police were as follows:—

Larceny,	757
Breaking and entering,	380
Assault and battery,	296
Malicious mischief,	255
Throwing missiles in the streets,	202
Trespass,	188
Gaming on Lord's Day, and being present at,	152

Riding on cars unlawfully,	132
Stubborn children,	110
Neglected children,	81
Discharging fireworks and firearms in the streets,	78
Unlawful use of streets,	51
Disturbing the peace,	51
Violation of conditions of license (newsboys),	43
Idle and disorderly,	34
Drunkenness,	27
Unlawful appropriation,	21
Profanity,	20
False alarm of fire,	20
Arson,	17
Wayward children,	16
Building bonfires,	14
Default warrant,	12
Wilful damage,	11
Robbery, and attempt at,	11
Obstructing sidewalk,	11
Violation of park rules,	10
Suspicious person,	9
Receiving stolen property,	9
Violation of Sunday law (bootblacks),	8
Carrying concealed weapons,	7
Violation of conditions of pardon,	6
Begging in public streets,	5
Committing nuisance in public streets, vagrants, 4 each,	8
Threats, runaways, truancy, forgery, bathing in sight of public place, assault with a dangerous weapon, 3 each,	18
Violation of automobile laws,	2
Sleeping out of doors, rape, manslaughter, fugitive, fornication, obscene pictures in possession, 1 each,	6
Total,	3,078

These 3,078 cases were disposed of as follows : —

Probation,	1,116
On file,	1,023
Discharged,	231
Fined,	156
Discharged by court,	104
Suffolk School,	89
Cases pending,	76
Home for Destitute Catholic Children,	66

EXTRA POLICE DUTY.

The year just closed was undoubtedly the busiest in the history of the Boston police force. An unusual amount of extra duty was placed upon the men, but it was performed with a zeal and a loyalty which can be known only to their superiors. The May listing, for instance, which has always been regarded as a task to test the strength of the force, came in the midst of weeks of trying extra service by hundreds of men, made necessary by the teamsters' strike then at its height. The situation was so critical that one influential body of citizens called for the militia, and another demanded that the police should not attempt the listing work. But the police proved themselves equal to the double task imposed upon them, in addition to their regular service. The strike disorders diminished and finally disappeared, and the listing was so well done that no more than the usual number of persons applied for supplemental listing.

WIDENING SCOPE OF POLICE WORK.

There is a notable tendency to place upon the police more and more work of great public importance which is foreign to what was formerly regarded as within the scope of legitimate police duty. Until lately, for example, the business of policemen at voting places was merely to preserve order. They are now made an integral and vital part of the machinery of elections. Policemen in the early morning carry from the office of the Election Commissioners to the two hundred and five voting places the ballots, ballot boxes, check lists and other appurtenances, lacking any one of which voting could not proceed. It is a policeman who hands the key of the ballot box to the warden, witnesses and certifies to the number registered, and is the custodian of the key through the day. A policeman watches the proceedings of election officers from the opening of the polls until the final returns are handed to him for delivery to the Election Commissioners. He must be informed as to all the conditions under which voting should proceed and the ballots be handled and counted, for it is his duty to act instantly, should any condition be violated. He has printed instructions from his own superiors and from the Board of Election Commissioners. He holds in his hand a list of voters in the precinct whose confinement in hospitals or penal institutions makes it impossible that their names should legally be voted upon. He holds also a printed descriptive list of all voters in the precinct, and uses it constantly as a means of checking attempts at fraud. And when the polls are closed and the count is begun, it is a policeman who must watch every movement of the election officers, with a full knowledge of the things which they should or should not do; see to it that a dozen details are observed in sealing and otherwise preparing the returns, and then take them for personal delivery to the Election Commissioners. As any member of the department is liable to be detailed for this work, and as several hundred are actually so detailed at each of the four primary and regular elections held yearly, and as this is but one of many directions in which new laws have placed new duties upon the police, the requirement of intelligence on their part as well as courage and integrity is far greater than it ever was before.

The police are proud of this increasing trust which is reposed in them by the Legislature, but no one outside the force itself seems to have thought that there is a limit to the kind and the quantity of the work which they can do. Under an act passed by the Legislature of 1907 they have already investigated and reported upon the character of about 800 applicants for licenses to store and sell merchandise in the public streets, and upon the relations to public traffic of the proposed stands. Under another act passed in 1907 the police will be called upon annually to make thorough investigations of the character and fitness of about 7,000 citizens proposed for inclusion in the jury list.

STRENGTH OF THE FORCE.

There has been no increase in the strength of the patrol force for nearly seven years. At least 100 additional men were needed, to enable it to meet the increasing requirements of regular police work. The law allowing one day off in fifteen makes necessary the appointment of about 100 men, in order to maintain the daily strength of the force; but the original need of reinforcements remains unsatisfied. It must soon be met, despite the financial burdens of the municipality, and for as long as it is deferred the calls for additional policemen which come from all parts of the city must remain unanswered.

No attempt to estimate the relative strength of police forces of large cities by the number of men to the thousand inhabitants or to the square mile has any application to Boston. This is a city of very small area, which is the centre of a population twice as great as that with which it is officially credited. It is a city of streets and houses and people, lacking the great tracts of prairie and vacant land which form parts of almost all other large American cities.

DISCIPLINE OF THE FORCE.

Comment upon the discipline and effectiveness of the force by the official at its head is a delicate matter. The present commissioner feels justified, however, in expressing the belief that the improvement which had been going on for years has been continued. He has sought no guide in his treatment of the whole department and its individual members other than common sense and fair play. He has endeavored to make plain the fact that duty well done is the only means of securing special consideration or advancement. He believes that this lesson has been thoroughly learned by the police force, to its own benefit and the benefit of the public, and that it is the best possible foundation for further improvement.

JURISDICTION OVER THE HARBOR.

The War Department of the United States, through the United States Engineer Office, has called my attention to the fact that navigation in that part of Boston Harbor known as President Roads is seriously endangered by the presence of vessels, which from time to time anchor in or near the new thirty-five-foot channel.

Although the United States has passed a law forbidding such anchorage, it is in Boston without the means efficiently to enforce it. The harbor master for the port of Boston, who is appointed by the Police Commissioner, is the officer who would naturally regulate the anchorage of vessels over the entire harbor. His jurisdiction is, however, as the law now stands, confined to the "upper harbor" of Boston, which does not include the area in question.

That a proper supervision and regulation of vessels anchoring in the harbor may be had, I recommend such legislation as shall give to the harbor master the extended jurisdiction necessary.

THE WORK OF LISTING.

Under existing laws the Boston police are required to visit in the first seven week days of May in each year every building in the city of Boston; to ascertain and record the names, ages, occupations and places of residence on the first day of May in the current year and in the next preceding year of all male persons of twenty years of age or upwards; to verify in certain respects the names and residences of women voters; to record the names of persons from whom information is received; and to identify in writing every building, suite and tenement so visited. The police are required further to transmit to the Board of Election Commissioners on or before May 18 in each year complete lists, arranged by wards and precincts and in the order of street numbers, embodying all information concerning male residents thus obtained.

As these lists comprise nearly 200,000 male residents and the further inquiries affect about 14,000 women voters, it is only by means of thorough organization and the use of almost the entire strength of the police force that the work can be accomplished within the time limits established by law. In the event of public disorder or calamity at the time of listing, the police might find it impossible to protect life and property and maintain order, and yet comply with the time requirements of the listing laws. As the police lists are the foundation of the voting lists for all the elections of the year, a serious failure in listing would throw the political system of the city and of the State into extraordinary confusion.

I recommend the passage of an act providing that if, for the reasons suggested, the Police Commissioner for the city of Boston should in any year consider it necessary so to do, he should have the right, after notice to the Listing Board and to the Board of Election Commissioners of the city of Boston, to take for the work of listing additional time, not exceeding ten week days. Such an emergency might never arise, though in 1907 it was imminent because of the large force of police required in connection with the teamsters' strike; but in a matter of so great importance advance provision should be made.

The number of male residents of Boston twenty years of age or more listed by the police in the first seven days of May, 1907, was 195,900, as against 195,446 in 1906. The number of names added in the supplemental listing was 754, as against 751 in 1906, 697 in 1905, 1,280 in 1904, and 3,319 in 1903, the first year. It is evident, from the evenness with which the supplemental listing has run as to numbers in the past three years, that the original work of listing is now as near perfection as it ever can be brought.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT.

Arrests.

The total number of persons arrested, counting each arrest as that of a separate person, was 57,078, against 49,906 the preceding year, being an increase of 7,172. The percentage of increase or decrease was as follows:—

	Per Cent.
Offences against the person,	Increase, 6.20
Offences against property, committed with violence,	Decrease, 18.19
Offences against property, committed without violence,	Decrease, 9.96
Malicious offences against property,	Decrease, 37.25

Offences against the license laws,	Decrease, 21.14
Offences against chastity, morality, etc.,	Decrease, 6.74
Offences not included in the foregoing,	Increase, 18.58

There were 5,490 persons arrested on warrants and 46,590 without warrants; 4,998 persons were summoned by the court; 54,927 persons were held for trial and 2,151 were released from custody. The number of males arrested was 51,153; of females, 5,925; of foreigners, 25,502, or, approximately, 44.64 per cent.; of minors, 7,415. Of the total number arrested, 20,982, or 36.77 per cent., were nonresidents. (See Tables X., XI.)

The nativity of the prisoners was as follows:—

United States,	31,576	Holland,	22
British Provinces, . . .	4,490	Wales,	50
Ireland,	11,574	East Indies,	5
England,	1,483	West Indies,	60

Australia,	19	Syria,	20
Austria,	83	Roumania,	1
Portugal,	83	New Zealand,	1
Finland,	83
Denmark,	80	Total,	57,078

The number of arrests for the year is 57,078, being an increase of 7,172 over last year, and 7,350 more than the average for the past five years. There were 37,389 persons arrested for drunkenness, being 4,559 more than last year, and 4,632 more than the average for the past five years. Of the arrests for drunkenness this year, there was an increase of 14.17 per cent. in males and an increase of 8.56 per cent. in females from last year. (See Tables XI., XII.)

Of the total number of arrests for the year (57,078), 1,044 were for violations of the city ordinances; that is to say, 1 arrest in 54 was for such offence, or 1.83 per cent.

Fifty-five and thirty-three hundredths per cent. of the persons taken into custody were between the ages of twenty and forty. (See Table XIII.)

The number of persons punished by fines was 11,832, and the fines amounted to $110,129.60. (See Table XII.)

Seventy-three persons were committed to the State Prison, 4,881 to the House of Correction, 48 to the Women's Prison, 193 to the Reformatory Prison and 1,696 to other institutions. The total years of imprisonment were 2,807 $\frac{8}{12}$; the total number of days' attendance in court by officers was 36,778; and the witness fees earned by them amounted to \$11,149.99.

The value of property taken from prisoners and lodgers was $76,706.77.

Eighty-eight witnesses were detained at station houses; 13 persons were accommodated with lodgings,—a decrease of 38.09 per cent. from last year. There was an increase of about 4.40 per cent. from last year in the number of insane persons taken in charge, an increase of about 8.30 per cent. in the number of sick and injured persons assisted, and a decrease of about 1.12 per cent. in the number of lost children cared for.

The average amount of property reported stolen in the city for the five years from 1903 to 1907, inclusive, was $139,946.75; in 1907 it was $135,614.69, or $4,332.06 less than the average. The amount of property reported stolen in and out of the city which was recovered by the Boston police was $197,620.44, as against $208,324.08 last year, or $10,703.64 less.

The average amount of fines imposed by courts for the five years from 1903 to 1907, inclusive, was $103,530.58; in 1907 it was $110,129.60, or $6,599.02 more than the average.

The average number of days' attendance in court was 36,207; in 1907 it was 36,778, or 571 more than the average. The average amount of witness fees earned was $10,137.77; in 1907 it was $11,149.99, or $1,012.22 more than the average. (See Table XII.)

Drunkenness.

In arrests for drunkenness, the average number per day was 102+. There were 4,559 more persons arrested than in 1906,—an increase of 13.88 per cent.; 45.63 per cent. of the arrested persons were nonresidents and 47.86 per cent. were of foreign birth. (See Table XI.)

Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

The "Rogues' Gallery" now contains 27,626 photographs, 20,846 of which are photographs with Bertillon measurements, a system used by this department during the past nine years. In accordance with an act passed by the Legislature March 28, 1899 (chapter 203, sections 1 and 2), we are allowed photographs, with Bertillon measurements, of all convicts now in the several prisons in this State, and of those who have been confined there and who are measured under that system and photographs taken, — a number of which have already been added to our Bertillon cabinets. This, together with the adoption of the system by this department in 1898, is and will continue to be of great assistance in the identification of criminals. A large number of important identifications have thus been made during the year, for this and other police departments, through which the sentences in many instances have been materially increased. The records of 874 criminals have been added to the records kept in this Bureau, which now contains a total of 30,203. This Bureau has issued 360 prison reports of discharged convicts, containing the full records, description, distinguishing marks, etc., of 145 convicts who were discharged during the year, and whose records were considered of sufficient importance to preserve. Other police departments were furnished with 48 copies of these reports. The number of cases reported at this office which have been investigated during the year is 10,304. There are 17,567 cases recorded on the assignment books kept for this purpose, and reports made on these cases are filed away for future reference. Letters and telegrams to the number of about 2,000 yearly are now filed with the numbered reports to which they refer, so that all the papers pertaining to a case can be found in the same envelope, thus simplifying the matters when information is desired on any case. The system of indexing, adopted by this Bureau for the use of the department, now contains a list of records, histories, photographs, dates of arrests, etc., of about 100,000 persons. There are also "histories and press clippings," now numbering 6,868, kept by this Bureau, in envelope form, for police reference.

The finger-print system of identification, which was adopted in June, 1906, has progressed in a satisfactory manner, and with its development it is expected that the identification of criminals will be facilitated. It has become very useful in tracing criminals and furnishing corroborative evidence when serious crimes have been committed.

The statistics of the work of this branch of the service are included in the statements of the general work of the department; but, as the duties are of a special character, the following statement will be of interest:—

Number of persons arrested, principally for felonies,	1,095
Fugitives from justice from other States, arrested and delivered to officers from those States,	49

Lost, Abandoned and Stolen Property.

On the first of December, 1906, there were 526 articles of lost, abandoned or stolen property in the custody of the property clerk, 306 were received during the year, 413 were sold, for which $389.18 was received and paid over to the city collector, and 23 delivered to owners, finders or administrators, leaving 396 on hand.

SPECIAL EVENTS.

The following is a list of special events transpiring during the year, and gives the number of police detailed for duty at each : —

In addition to this list of events calling for large details of police was the teamsters' strike, which began on the 3d of April and ended on the 21st of July, thus lasting continuously 110 days, there being an average of 165 policemen on duty each day.

INSPECTOR OF CLAIMS.

The officer detailed to assist the committee on claims and law department in investigating claims against the city for alleged damage of various kinds reports that he investigated 609 cases, 9 of which were on account of damage done by dogs, resulting in the killing of 46 hens and chickens and 7 cows.

OFFICERS DETAILED TO ASSIST MEDICAL EXAMINERS.

Since July 25 last, the duty of assisting the medical examiners of Suffolk County at inquests has been performed by officers detailed from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation. They report having attended 171 inquests held out of 1,194 deaths, reported from the following causes:—

Causes of Death.

HOUSE OF DETENTION.

The house of detention for women, established by chapter 234 of the Acts of 1887, is located in the court house, Somerset Street. All the women arrested in the city proper are taken to the house of detention in vans provided for the purpose. They are then held in charge of the matron until the next session of the court before which they are to appear. If sentenced to imprisonment, they are returned to the house of detention, and from there conveyed to the jail or institution to which they have been sentenced.

During the year there were 4,751 women committed, viz.:—

For drunkenness,	2,831
For larceny,	374
For night walking,	157
For being idle and disorderly,	78
For assault and battery,	27
For violation of the liquor law,	14
For keeping a house of ill-fame,	11
For witnesses,	5
For awaiting conveyance to jail,	843
For various other offences,	411
Total,	4,751

POLICE SIGNAL SERVICE.

Underground Cable.

There were 15,996 feet of cable laid underground during the year: 6,410 feet on Division 6; 3,721 feet on Division 9; 3,190 feet on Division 10; 1,634 feet on Division 15; and 1,045 feet in the Washington Street subway, to replace a like amount made useless by the subway construction, the cost being assumed by the Transit Commissioners.

Signal Boxes.

The changes in the signal boxes during the year consisted of installing 1 new box on Division 11, and changing 10 boxes from overhead to underground connection. The total number of boxes now in use is 459. Of these, 261 are connected with the underground system and 198 with the overhead.

Miscellaneous Work.

During the year the employees of this service responded to 1,418 trouble calls; inspected 459 signal boxes, 15 signal desks and 921 batteries; repaired 132 box movements, 23 registers, 25 polar box bells, 73 locks, 13 plungers, 19 time stamps, 3 cones and 4 stable motors; put new fittings into 10 new "Gamewell" boxes, besides repairing all bell and electric light work at headquarters and the various stations. There have been built 73 box locks, 28 bell bases, 128 ratchets, 250 index blocks, 25 plunger shafts, 55 plunger standards, 25 switch bases, 92 complete box fittings, and a large amount of small work that cannot be classified.

There are in use in the signal service 28 horses, 19 patrol wagons and 13 pungs.

During the year the wagons made 36,201 runs, covering an aggregate distance of 31,870 miles. There were 37,519 prisoners conveyed to the station houses; 1,156 runs were made to take injured and insane persons to station houses, the hospitals or their homes; and 449 runs were made to take lost children to station houses. There were 752 runs to fires and 42 runs for liquor seizures. During the year there were 457 signal boxes in use, arranged on 60 circuits; 455,235 telephone messages and 2,966,599 "on-duty" calls were sent over the lines.

The following list comprises the property in the signal service at the present time : —

15 signal desks,	45 manholes,
60 circuits,	1 buggy,
459 street signal boxes,	1 line wagon,
14 stable call boards,	1 express wagon,
41 test boxes,	1 mugwump wagon,
921 cells of battery,	1 traverse pung,
71 miles underground cable,	2 small sleighs,
70 miles overhead cable,	1 caravan.
7½ miles of duct,

HARBOR SERVICE.

On account of the large number of yachts using the waters of the South Bay during the summer months, the police boat "Ferret" was placed on duty there from June to October. She did excellent service in protecting the property of yacht owners from thieves, and keeping order in the waters of the bay, as well as in caring for crafts found adrift and in recovering property in the form of yacht tenders, launches and fenders that had been stolen.

The special duties performed by the police of Division 8, comprising the harbor and islands therein, were as follows : —

Value of property recovered, consisting of boats, rigging, float stages, etc.,	$11,876.75
Number of vessels from foreign ports boarded,	757
Number of vessels ordered from the channel to proper anchorage,	1,794
Number of vessels removed from the channel by police steamers,	72
Number of cases of assistance rendered,	181
Number of cases of assistance rendered to wharfingers,	7
Number of permits granted vessels, in the stream, to discharge cargoes,	46
Number of obstructions removed from channel,	42
Number of alarms of fire on the water front attended,	110
Number of fires extinguished without alarm,	8
Number of boats challenged,	1,852
Sick and injured persons assisted,	18
Cases investigated,	647
Dead bodies recovered,	35
Dead bodies cared for,	3
Rescued from drowning,	16
Number of vessels ordered to put up anchor lights,	35
Number of vessels assigned to anchorage,	936
Steamers escorted, outgoing and incoming,	205

The total number of vessels that arrived in this port during the year was 10,074. Of this number, 8,443 came from domestic ports, 874 from ports in the British Provinces and 757 from foreign ports. Of the latter, 701 were steamers, 10 ships, 24 barks and 22 schooners.

HORSES.

On the 1st of December, 1906, there were 95 horses in the service. During the year 6 were sold, 2 purchased, and 3 shot on account of being disabled. At the present time there are 88 in service, as shown by Table IX.

VEHICLE SERVICE.

Automobiles.

The following shows the work of the automobiles for the year ending November 30 last: —

Automobile No. 2388 has been in service since July, 1903. It was on duty 124 days during the year, and covered a distance of 4,329 miles on the streets and parks in the Back Bay and South Boston districts. The operating patrolman made 6 arrests for exceeding the speed limit, and cautioned many automobile operators regarding the speed law.

Automobile No. 4711 has been in service since May, 1904. It was on duty 110 days during the year, and covered a distance of 4,800 miles on the park roads. This machine was condemned on May 2, 1907.

Automobile No. 10117 has been in service since June, 1905. It was on duty 199 days during the year and covered a distance of 10,642 miles in the streets of the West Roxbury district. The operating patrolman responded to 17 alarms of fire, investigated 87 cases, quelled 17 disturbances, conveyed 2 injured persons to their homes and made 11 arrests.

Automobile No. 9601 has been in service since July 1, 1905. It was on duty 179 days during the year, and covered a distance of 5,286 miles on the outlying streets of the Dorchester district. The operating patrolman made 82 arrests, conveyed 7 lost children to their homes and responded to 9 alarms of fire.

Collective.

Collective musicians' licenses are granted to bands of persons over fifteen years of age to play on musical instruments in company with designated processions, at stated times and places.

For these licenses there were 154 applications, 152 of which were granted and 2 rejected.

PUBLIC LODGING-HOUSES.

Every building in the city of Boston, not licensed as an inn, in which ten or more persons are lodged for twenty-five cents or less each per night, is a public lodging-house, under chapter 242 of the Acts of 1904; and the Police Commissioner is authorized to grant licenses to such lodging-houses after the inspector of buildings has certified that the building is provided with proper exits and appliances for giving alarm to the inmates in case of fire, and the Board of Health has certified that the sanitary condition is satisfactory. Under this law 19 applications for licenses were received; all of them were granted, and licenses issued. One license was surrendered and cancelled, and another issued in its place.

The following shows the locations of the licensed lodging-houses and the number of persons lodged in each during the year: —

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS.

The act empowering cities and towns to grant licenses to persons asking the privilege of carrying loaded pistols or revolvers took effect March 16, 1906. From Dec. 1, 1906, to Nov. 30, 1907, the police department received 681 applications, of which 625 were granted and 56 refused. Each application calls for police investigation, clerical service and printed forms. These licenses are reissued annually. It seems to be proper that the persons licensed should pay a small fee for each original issue or renewal, as in the case of all other persons holding licenses from the police department; and I respectfully suggest an amendment to the law which will authorize the collection of a fee of $1 for each license.

PENSIONS AND BENEFITS.

Dec. 1, 1906, there were 201 pensioners on the roll. During the year 17 died, viz., 3 lieutenants, 1 inspector, 1 sergeant and 12 patrolmen; and 24 were added, viz., 2 captains, 2 lieutenants, 1 sergeant, 17 patrolmen and the widows of patrolmen Harris and DeCoursey, leaving 208 on the roll at date, including the widows of 11 and the orphans of 1 policeman, who died from injuries received in the service.

The payments on account of pensions during the past year amounted to $128,852.81, and it is estimated that $131,057.50 will be required for pensions in 1908. This does not include pensions for 1 captain, 1 inspector, 1 sergeant and 5 patrolmen, all of whom are sixty-five years or over, and are entitled to be pensioned on account of age and term of service.

The invested fund of the police charitable fund on the 30th of November last amounted to $207,550. There are 62 beneficiaries at the present time, and there has been paid to them the sum of $7,801 during the past year.

The invested fund of the Police Relief Association on the 30th of November was $98,405.98.

FINANCIAL.

A requisition was made on the city council for the sum of $1,974,029.12 to meet the running expenses of the department, including the pensioned police officers, house of detention, station house matrons, listing persons twenty years of age or more and police signal service for the financial year.

The total expenditures for police purposes during the past year, including the pensions, house of detention, station house matrons and listing persons twenty years of age or more, but exclusive of the maintenance of the police signal service, were $1,886,045.68.

The total revenue paid into the city treasury from fees for licenses over which the police have supervision and for the sale of unclaimed and condemned property, etc., was $47,497.55. (See Table XIV.)

The cost of maintaining the police signal service during the year was $61,340.45. (See Table XVIII.)
